The passage below, describes how to make a delicious treat. Underline the key parts of this, to make a recipe:

Get some flour – the plain type and put a 100g of it into a bowl. Then get a couple of large eggs and add into the bowl and a tablespoon of oil as well. I always add a small bit of salt (a pinch of salt) into the bowl as well because this brings out the flavours. Get ready and whisk it either by hand or using an electric whisk. Keep whisking the mixture until it turns into a smooth batter.

You can then leave it to one side for 30 min.s or start cooking it straight away – it doesn't matter.

Get a frying pan (not too large and not too small, medium) and put it over a heat (again, not too low nor too hot – use a medium heat). I tend to wipe it over with some oiled kitchen paper. I wait until it's hot and then I add some of the mixture and cook it on each side for about a minute – or at least until it's golden.

You can keep cooked pancakes warm in the oven. I keep doing this until I've used up all the mixture. I serve the with lemon wedges and caster sugar (not granulated sugar).

Can you re-write this recipe into simple steps, using as few words as possible?
